

Jess Taylor

Staff/Principal Designer | Design Lead | Head of Design

I'm a strategic product designer with a deep love for the craft; the kind that comes from getting lost in the details, workshopping ideas late into the night, sitting with users and figuring out how things actually work.

Shaping large-scale consumer experiences across Australia's most trusted brands

Sydney Morning Herald • The Age • Australian Financial Review • Good Food • Nine.com.au • The Iconic • Aus. Federal Government • Telstra

I've had the privilege throughout my career to lead the design teams responsible for brands used by millions of people every day across publishing, e-commerce, financial, telco, and government industries.

That scale means I don't just design products; I design for the ecosystems that support them, partnering closely with product, engineering, editorial, brand, marketing, and commercial to bring experiences to life that are truly end-to-end.

I'm currently leading AI Design at Nine, helping shape the frameworks, tools, and ways of working that are redefining how we operate. As AI accelerates the need to codify craft and practice, I'm focused on building capability through systems and standards that shape how the work is defined, structured, and supported across teams and disciplines.
